SIR HENRY THORNTON RESIGNS AS HEAD OF NATIONAL RAILWAYS

Resignation Accepted by Board of Directors and Dominion Government, Effective August 1—S. J. Hungerford to Be Acting President—Action Taken Because of Public Criticism

OTTAWA, July 19 (CP).—Resignation of Sir Henry Thornton as president and chairman of the Canadian National Railways has been accepted by the board of directors and the Dominion Government. His resignation, effective August 1, was announced today.

Coinciding with this announcement came a statement that Sir Henry would be acting president. Mr. Hungerford has been vice-president of the system in charge of operation and construction.

Future plans of Sir Henry have not been disclosed. He issued a statement in Montreal late today but gave no intimation of what he intends to do.

TENDERS RESIGNATION
His resignation, addressed to Hon. R. J. Macdonald, Minister of Railways and Canals, gives his reason for resigning in the following terms:

"In my opinion, a publicly owned railway can only be successfully directed if the management has the complete confidence of the owners of the property. The public criticism to which I have referred indicates that such confidence is, at least, not general, and in this period of financial depression, and in view of the further fact that a Royal Commission is investigating the whole railway situation of the country, I feel that I should tender my resignation."

WAS UNDER FIRE
Sir Henry came under fire before a Parliamentary committee of the House of Commons last session. Appointment of the committee was a sequel to criticism of administration of the system the year previous. Simultaneous with announcement of Sir Henry's resignation was the connection with the C.N.R. for a few months less than ten years.

Dictatorship Seems Likely
All efforts of Prussian Diet to choose Premier fail.

BERLIN, July 19 (AP).—Dictatorship for Prussia, the state which comprises by far the larger portion of Germany, with a Federal Commission in the saddle, seemed inevitable tonight on the eve of an important conference to which Chancellor Franz von Papen summoned the Ministers of the Interior and of Welfare—Dr. Karl Severing and Heinrich Brüning.

Every effort of the newly-elected Prussian Diet, in which the supporters of Adolf Hitler gained the majority, to choose a Premier would have majority support, but failed, and the Government for several weeks has remained in the hands of the resigned Cabinet headed by Otto Braun.

UNDER CONSTANT PRESSURE
The Federal Government has been under constant pressure from the followers of Hitler and his ally, Dr. Alfred Hugenberg.

At the time of the election, the new German election scheduled for July 31, when Hitler expects his growing success to be crowned by a majority in the Reichstag, there have been bloody political clashes throughout the state.

The Prussian Government has been in conflict with the Federal Government and the situation generally is considered intolerable by Chancellor von Papen and the Federal Minister of the Interior, Baron Wilhelm von Gayl.

Swallowed Keys Of Father's Car
ENID, Okla., July 19.—"Where," demanded W. R. Rothe, "are the keys to the car?"

"I don't know where I put those keys," replied his nine-year-old son, Charles, "unless I swallowed them."

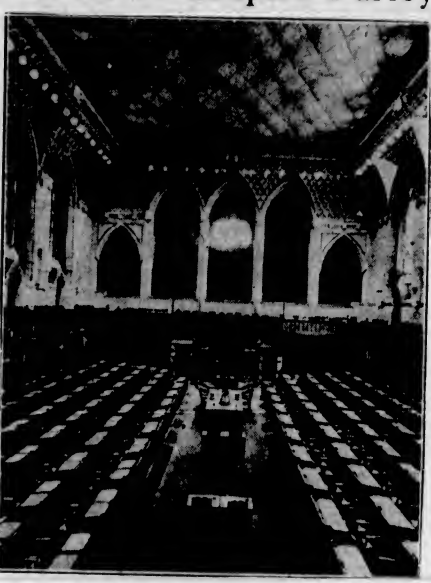

It developed that Charles had a physician's key kept in his pocket, and that he had swallowed the keys with daily X-ray pictures. There have been no ill effects.

Steel Producers Reach Satisfactory Agreement

LONDON, July 19 (CP).—"A great lead to other industries," was the way Sir James Dunn tonight described an agreement reached between British and Canadian steel producers on the very eve of the Imperial Economic Conference.

No details of the agreement are available here but Sir James confirmed reports that a conference in Canada had resulted in a policy of "mutual protection," under which Canada will give the United Kingdom certain steel purchases now made in the United States. A cable

Six-Man Cabinet, Combination of Offices and 75 Per Cent Cut in Representation Believed Urged—Executive Council Declines to Discuss Findings

BRITISH Columbia may emerge with a six-man Cabinet, a Legislature of fourteen representatives, and an annual budget of $18,500,000 if suggestions laid before the Government by the Kidd committee on provincial affairs are adopted in full. Such, at least, is the import of statements being made by those who say they know what the report contains. Members of the Government, while admitting receipt of the Kidd report, decline to discuss it in any form, until full publication of the document by the Government itself.

JAPANESE AND CHINESE CLASH

Former Reported Invading Last Unoccupied Section of Manchuria

TOKYO, July 19 (AP).—The Japanese army has begun an invasion of the province of Jehol, last unoccupied section of Manchuria, and clashed there with Chinese troops. Dispatches from Mukden said a battle occurred just inside the Jehol boundary line. Although details were lacking, the Japanese were said to have driven back the Jehol troops and started to march to Peiping, and a branch terminus of the Mukden-Chinghai railway.

The purpose of the expedition was reported to be the rescue of Gonshiro Ishimoto, a former Japanese army officer, believed captured by the Chinese near Peiping.

A dispatch to the newspaper Asahi from Mukden said Ishimoto, now a civilian employee of the army, was sent to Peiping some time ago to arrange for the selling of opium from Jehol in their markets rather than that of Peiping.

Lumbermen Leave For Conference

NEW WESTMINSTER, July 19.—Four buildings in this Summer resort town, three residences and a dance pavilion, were destroyed by fire early this morning.

Fanned by a west wind, the flames for a time threatened nearby buildings, but strenuous efforts by residents, who formed themselves into a bucket brigade, prevented the spread of the fire.

Among the buildings destroyed were Shellhear Cottage, the Summer home of George Rietel, Vancouver brewer; the home of Mrs. Lewis, New Westminster, and the newly constructed dance pavilion. The owner of the third dwelling had not been ascertained at an early hour this morning.

The town has no fire department, but a fire pump was brought from New Westminster to aid the volunteer brigade. Value of the four structures that were destroyed is not yet known.

Brazilian Rebels Routed in Battle

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 19 (AP).—The Provisional Government of Getulio Vargas announced today that loyal Federal troops had taken the city of Ilarare in Southern Sao Paulo, near the Parana State border.

The communique said there was a brief and bloody bayonet battle after which the Sao Paulo rebels retreated into their own state.

GAZE FROM ALL POINTS ON OTTAWA

Has Become World Centre on Eve of Imperial Conference

STATESMEN OF MANY NATIONS IN CAPITAL

OTTAWA, July 19 (CP).—Overnight the city of Ottawa emerged from its customary passive state of being a moderately sized provincial city, with all the limitations that such a condition imposes, to a world centre—a city that has attracted to it the gaze of all the continents.

The Imperial Conference has not yet officially begun, but to all intents and purposes this assembly is now functioning.

UNCOUNTERED HOST
Statesmen from every nation of the Empire, men whose names are a household word in all the countries of the world, are now here, with battalions of advisers and secretaries. And with them is an uncounted host of people who have no official status in the conference, but who are blanketed under the all-embracing term of "observers."

That there will be a great deal to observe goes without saying. With the exception of Newfoundland's Prime Minister, the personnel of the conference is complete. Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Lord President of the Council, headed a British delegation, which no fewer than seventy-eight persons were included. Less imposing are the other national groups.

Athletes Are Good Sportsmen

TORONTO, July 19.—Although chosen to represent Canada as a cyclist at the Olympic Games, Russell Hunt, clerk at a local hotel, did not expect to go, as the arrangements left him to supply his own expenses.

Members of the British, South African, Belgian and Hungarian Olympic delegations staying at the hotel on their way to Los Angeles, had been informed that Hunt needed for his trip. The hotel management will supply the rest.

Conference May Give Whole World Step Up

Is Baldwin's Opinion

Empire Delegates Entering on Deliberations in True Spirit of Sportsmanship for the Good of the Side, Says British Leader

OTTAWA, July 19 (CP).—The Economic Conference must be far above all parties and personalities, Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, leader of the British delegation, told a gathering of newspapermen here this evening. A real conference may be "a step up for the whole world."

With Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Dominions, Baldwin granted an interview to newspapermen in his hotel suite.

The famous Baldwin pipe was in evidence. The British delegation leader held it affectionately in his hand while he talked. When he had finished his statement he lighted it and puffed contentedly. Mr. Thomas also smoked a pipe with apparent satisfaction.

COME TO WORK
"The British delegation had come to work, said Mr. Baldwin. It was much too early to say anything about the conference."

"I am extremely pleased that this conference has been called," proceeded Mr. Baldwin. "Many conferences had been held in the past, but never one approaching this in importance. To begin with, Great Britain had never had such a free hand to negotiate as that given her now by the British people. Secondly, no conference had ever taken place at a time when conditions were so serious throughout the world."

DRILL BOAT BLOWN TO BITS; ST. LAWRENCE VALLEY SHAKEN

Huge Charge of Dynamite on River Bottom Explodes Prematurely—Seven Men Killed and Nine Injured by Terrific Shock—Ship Gone When Smoke and Flying Wreckage Clears

Men and Machinery Are Hurlled Skyward by Blast

ALEXANDRIA BAY, N.Y., July 19.—Seven men were believed killed and nine were injured late today, when a dynamite explosion on the rocky bottom of the St. Lawrence River blew the drill boat America high into the air.

A ton and a half of dynamite which had just been backed in a drill hole on the rocky bottom of the St. Lawrence River exploded prematurely, hurling men, machinery and splintered remains of the 150-foot drill boat high into the air.

When the smoke and flying wreckage cleared, the America had disappeared from sight. Only floating timbers and planks appeared. Upon these a handful of survivors dragged themselves to await rescue.

DIVER FINDS BODIES
Two mangled bodies were taken tonight from the bottom of the river by a diver working with powerful electric lamps. One was identified as that of Ivan Rush, thirty-two, boss driller, believed to have been from La Salle, Ill.

The other body was believed to be that of Joe Slusarski, twenty-four, a "dynamite man," also from La Salle. The diver went back to find five other bodies believed lying at the river bottom.

Rush was in charge of drilling operations when the underwater explosion occurred. He appeared to have been instantly killed in the upheaval.

TANKER GIVES AID
Ploughing upstream, through the floating trash, came an oil tanker on its way to the Great Lakes. She threw life preservers overboard, witnesses said, then proceeded on her way, leaving the work of rescue to a fleet of motorboats which scurried out from among the Thousand Islands of the St. Lawrence.

The nine injured were in hospitals at Ogdensburg, most of them with leg injuries. Ankles were crushed and legs broken as the explosion built the deck of the America skyward.

The America, owned by the R. D. Huffman Construction Company, of Cleveland, was removing rock from the Federal Channel, less than ten miles from the spot where a Canadian Government boat blew up in 1930 with the loss of thirty-one lives. The Canadian boat had been engaged in similar work when lightning exploded her dynamite stores.

Flame May Have Been Lost Plane

BUENOS AIRES, July 19 (AP).—A youth's tale of seeing a "flame in the sky" Saturday afternoon came to La Nacion today from Mendoza, Argentina, and gave a possible hint to the fate of a missing air liner and its nine passengers.

The youth could make no accurate estimate of the distance through the mountains at which the flash occurred, nor did he investigate. The air liner disappeared Saturday while en route from Santiago, Chile, to Mendoza.

NEW CUTWORM FOE DISCOVERED

Species of Wasp Found That Preys on Enemy of Wheat Farmer

CALGARY, July 19 (CP).—The cutworm may worry the Western wheat farmer, but it has been revealed that the "Pompilids" worry the cutworm a lot more.

The "Pompilids" are a new species of wasp, discovered by investigation into cutworm damage in parts of Saskatchewan and Alberta. They will not sting human beings, but prey on the cutworm.

"Mother Pompilids" renders the cutworm unconscious by stinging it in a vital nerve centre. She then drags the unconscious wasp menace into her nest and lays her eggs in its inert body.

Soldiers of Bolivia and Paraguay Resume Fight

LA PAZ, Bolivia, July 19 (AP).—An official communique from Bolivian headquarters in the disputed Chaco region today, told of an attack by 300 Paraguayan soldiers on the Bolivian fort, Mariscal Santa Cruz, on July 15. The communique added that fighting was continuing.

The courier who brought the message from Fort Muro, Bolivian headquarters in the Chaco, which has been in dispute between the two countries for many years, said two

Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe Tells Ratepayers' Association
Where Difficulties Lie

"There is no such thing as free education; someone has to pay for it," said Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, Minister of Education, in addressing the Victoria Ratepayers' Association by invitation last evening. He said that in his address in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium, at a meeting presided over by Frank Higgins, K.C., that he meant schooling by using the term education. The state went on the principle that every child should receive schooling to fit it for the duties of citizenship. In the early days the cost of schools had been placed on one class, the property owners, and it had continued in this line. School taxes had increased in the province in part, because of the demands of the citizens themselves and there was a lack of tax consciousness in the province. From the year 1893 the age limit for children up to which accommodation was to be found, had risen from the age of twelve to fifteen. This had increased the cost of the schools.

service, rumors circulated that United States roads were seeking his services. One report was that a railway of the Western States had made Sir Henry an offer, but it was officially said at Montreal that no such offer had been accepted.

HAS SAME POWERS
In announcing that Mr. Hinchliffe would be acting president, the Minister of Railways said:

"As Mr. Hinchliffe has been the operating head of the Canadian National Railways since its consolidation in 1923, and was assistant vice-president of the Canadian National Railways at Toronto as far back as 1919, and as he has spent his life in railway work and has the confidence of the officers and men, he will be a sure and acceptable. He will have the same power and authority as the president to operate and administer the Canadian National Railways in their best interest and in the interest of the people of Canada, without political or other interference of any kind. The Government in this taking the same attitude as that which we have taken since coming into power."

CO-OPERATION URGED
"Mr. Hinchliffe is one of the outstanding railwaymen of this continent, and we hope the rank and file of the Canadian National Railways will continue to show him and the railway that same loyalty and co-operation which they have shown in the years during which they have been employed, knowing that in this way they can best serve the railway organization of which they are a part. No one doubts he has qualities through the years, and I can assure them that they are no more than the qualities of the Canadian National Railways. I urge them to give of their very best to assist Mr. Hinchliffe and his officers to carry the Canadian National Railways to the very best of their ability."

ISSUES STATEMENT
MONTREAL, July 19 (AP).—In tendering his resignation as President of the Canadian National Railway, Sir Henry Thornton issued the following statement today:

"I have had under consideration the railway situation which has arisen largely by reason of published criticism of the expenditures of the Canadian National Railways during my regime. I feel that it is only fair to point out that all capital expenditures were only made after careful consideration by myself and the chief officers of the company, and represented our views of what was necessary for the welfare of the enterprise. These expenditures were, of course, controlled by the Government. I, however, feel that the successful operation of the railway can only be carried on if the company as a whole is heartily behind the management, and in view of this and the fact that the Government is wishing to consider their policy I feel that, in order to give them a free hand, I should submit my resignation."

PRaises EMPLOYEES
"In leaving the service of the Canadian National Railways I especially desire to thank the officers and the men with whom I have been associated for nearly ten years for the loyalty, enthusiasm and ability which all have given with a generous hand to the enterprise and my company. It is a pleasure to me to recall the service of my contact with those in the service of the company, and I may add with truth that whatever has been accomplished has been largely due to the co-operative spirit displayed by all from the highest to the lowest."

"I am quite certain that the same devotion to duty and the high principles which have characterized both management and men will be extended with equal fidelity to the succeeding administration."

"I bid you all farewell. I wish to you happiness and prosperity and hope that the future will bring to you that good fortune which fine service merits."

CONFERENCE MAY GIVE WHOLE WORLD STEP UP IN BALDWIN'S OPINION
The British delegation was proud to sit and deliberate under the presidency of Prime Minister Baldwin, and Sir Henry said he believed the Prime Minister of Canada was well qualified to conduct such a conference.

Mr. Thomas declared he felt he had a special responsibility in respect to this conference, because it must be recalled it was an adjourned conference and he had been present at the first part.

"NOT IN THAT CROWD"
The condition of the world was not only economic—it was psychological, Mr. Thomas continued. Depression had become prevalent in the minds of some people, and the "down" spirit was manifested by them.

"We were never in that crowd," interjected Mr. Baldwin.

"It was about to sit with the exception of you and me," said Mr. Thomas, with a smile.

If the conference could be made a success, the down and out spirit would have been killed, he continued. It ought to be a tremendous encouragement to the Canadian people to know that conditions in Canada were infinitely better than those in Great Britain.

REGAINS HEALTH; IS BACK AT WORK
Tony Zarelli, Famous Shoe Shiner of Victoria, Now Sells Vegetables in City
Wealth and poverty! Harmony and discord! Depression and prosperity! Good health and suffering! Tony Zarelli has known the full meaning of all of them, and now, at the age of seventy-two years, he has developed and cultivated a fine vegetable garden at the corner of Vancouver and St. James, where he may be seen daily offering his freshly grown produce for sale.

What business man of Victoria, who has resided here for many years, does not know the genial smile of Tony Zarelli, the former Italian shoe shiner, whose shop on Troncy Alley in former years was often the scene of many a conference between prominent men and otherwise?

Fondly now he recalls those whom he boasted of as being his customers. "Rich and poor, judges, school teachers, boys and girls, and men who have seen Victoria grow through the years," he says, "had their shoes shined by him."

VISITED AFRICA
Born in a small village in Southern Italy, "Tony," as he is known in Victoria and many other cities, left his native land in 1880 to go to Africa, where he was in charge of a large laboring gang for several years. With a remarkably clear memory he recalls leaving Africa on April 3, 1887, for New York, where he worked his way across the United States to Tacoma.

For two years he remained in Tacoma, and proudly he boasts of the boarding house which he operated there, where he cooked all the meals himself. "Whenever possible," he says, "I would get it at Tony Zarelli's," he says.

Wages, however, were small in Tacoma at that time, the genial old Italian states, and the best average he could maintain was $1.75 a day.

CAME TO VICTORIA
The year 1890 found Tony on his way to Victoria from Tacoma, and he arrived here on Monday, May 13, 1890. He had established a shoe shining parlor at the corner of Fort and Government Streets, where, he says, he made $75 a month. In May he was offered a position as shoe shiner at the corner of Fort and Government Streets, where he worked for a year. He says he was not large enough.

June 1 of the same year found him in a shop at the corner of Yates and Government Streets, at the present site of the Imperial Bank. Here business began to boom, and Tony realized a profit of from $5 to $60 a week. This prompted him to take up a stand in the Horseshoe Saloon at Troncy Alley and Government Street, where his business expanded steadily until he played seven shoe shining parlors in the city.

In 1904 he opened another shop on Troncy Alley, where he worked himself. This was the last of the present site of W. & J. Wilson, and it was here that men of all creeds gathered to hear the tales that Tony had to tell.

SUFFERS ILL HEALTH
After operating here for twenty-three years, Tony suffered a nervous breakdown in 1927, and was confined to his home at 1154 Johnson Street for five years, during which time he has been forced to watch his small fortune, which was practically fully invested in property holdings, dwindle.

He has no regrets, however, and says that he feels "as fine as any man in British Columbia," despite the fact that he works from 4 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock at night, and constantly maintains the happy smile with which he has won his way to the hearts of local business men.

"We were never in that crowd," interjected Mr. Baldwin.

"It was about to sit with the exception of you and me," said Mr. Thomas, with a smile.

If the conference could be made a success, the down and out spirit would have been killed, he continued. It ought to be a tremendous encouragement to the Canadian people to know that conditions in Canada were infinitely better than those in Great Britain.

BORN IN N. CONSTRUCTION
Born at Pigeon Lake, Prince Edward Island, in 1868; Mr. Smith came West in 1883. Then next year he taught school at Oak Point, Alta., a year later he joined the E. & N. Railway. Three years later he left Vancouver Island but continued in railway construction work in Washington and British Columbia until 1915, when he went to Kamloops, Alta., where he started farming.

In 1921 he entered Alberta political life and captured the Camrose seat for the United Farmers who that party took over the reins of Government in Alberta. He succeeded in winning the seat in every election following, maintaining his farm at the same time.

Will Describe Opening Scenes At Conference
VICTORIANS will be offered an opportunity of hearing the opening ceremony of the Imperial Conference in Ottawa tomorrow morning, when a descriptive announcement of the proceedings will be broadcast across Canada by the Canadian National network, commencing at 6:45 a.m. and continuing until 7:30 o'clock. The programme will be heard in the West over Station CNRV, Vancouver, which will also carry the broadcast in different times. State dinner from 6:45 to 6:45 p.m. All times are Pacific standard.

REGAINS HEALTH; IS BACK AT WORK
Tony Zarelli, Famous Shoe Shiner of Victoria, Now Sells Vegetables in City
Wealth and poverty! Harmony and discord! Depression and prosperity! Good health and suffering! Tony Zarelli has known the full meaning of all of them, and now, at the age of seventy-two years, he has developed and cultivated a fine vegetable garden at the corner of Vancouver and St. James, where he may be seen daily offering his freshly grown produce for sale.

What business man of Victoria, who has resided here for many years, does not know the genial smile of Tony Zarelli, the former Italian shoe shiner, whose shop on Troncy Alley in former years was often the scene of many a conference between prominent men and otherwise?

Fondly now he recalls those whom he boasted of as being his customers. "Rich and poor, judges, school teachers, boys and girls, and men who have seen Victoria grow through the years," he says, "had their shoes shined by him."

VISITED AFRICA
Born in a small village in Southern Italy, "Tony," as he is known in Victoria and many other cities, left his native land in 1880 to go to Africa, where he was in charge of a large laboring gang for several years. With a remarkably clear memory he recalls leaving Africa on April 3, 1887, for New York, where he worked his way across the United States to Tacoma.

For two years he remained in Tacoma, and proudly he boasts of the boarding house which he operated there, where he cooked all the meals himself. "Whenever possible," he says, "I would get it at Tony Zarelli's," he says.

Wages, however, were small in Tacoma at that time, the genial old Italian states, and the best average he could maintain was $1.75 a day.

CAME TO VICTORIA
The year 1890 found Tony on his way to Victoria from Tacoma, and he arrived here on Monday, May 13, 1890. He had established a shoe shining parlor at the corner of Fort and Government Streets, where, he says, he made $75 a month. In May he was offered a position as shoe shiner at the corner of Fort and Government Streets, where he worked for a year. He says he was not large enough.

June 1 of the same year found him in a shop at the corner of Yates and Government Streets, at the present site of the Imperial Bank. Here business began to boom, and Tony realized a profit of from $5 to $60 a week. This prompted him to take up a stand in the Horseshoe Saloon at Troncy Alley and Government Street, where his business expanded steadily until he played seven shoe shining parlors in the city.

In 1904 he opened another shop on Troncy Alley, where he worked himself. This was the last of the present site of W. & J. Wilson, and it was here that men of all creeds gathered to hear the tales that Tony had to tell.

SUFFERS ILL HEALTH
After operating here for twenty-three years, Tony suffered a nervous breakdown in 1927, and was confined to his home at 1154 Johnson Street for five years, during which time he has been forced to watch his small fortune, which was practically fully invested in property holdings, dwindle.

He has no regrets, however, and says that he feels "as fine as any man in British Columbia," despite the fact that he works from 4 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock at night, and constantly maintains the happy smile with which he has won his way to the hearts of local business men.

The British delegation was proud to sit and deliberate under the presidency of Prime Minister Baldwin, and Sir Henry said he believed the Prime Minister of Canada was well qualified to conduct such a conference.

Mr. Thomas declared he felt he had a special responsibility in respect to this conference, because it must be recalled it was an adjourned conference and he had been present at the first part.

"NOT IN THAT CROWD"
The condition of the world was not only economic—it was psychological, Mr. Thomas continued. Depression had become prevalent in the minds of some people, and the "down" spirit was manifested by them.

"We were never in that crowd," interjected Mr. Baldwin.

"It was about to sit with the exception of you and me," said Mr. Thomas, with a smile.

Sinclair Has Plan To Hire Whole Navy To Recover Camera

Canton to Him Just a "Guffaw" in Spite of Hourly Murders—Army and Navy Mix-Up Clearly Explained

GORDON SINCLAIR

CANTON, China. — Ninety per cent of the Chinese in Canada migrated from Canton, and who shall blame them? I've thought once or twice that I'd finally discovered the heap of creation, but I must have been wrong. This is it. There can't be another.

Half the home-town Cantonese never slept a night of their lives on dry land. They float around a harbor thicker than milligatany in tubs and junks and when they die somebody just pushes them over the side. When the river floods—and you know how Chinese rivers flood—10,000 or so get swept out to sea and the papers print a paragraph about it.

If you go in to buy a ham sandwich the sandwich man will ask you about 24.69, so you hore a cooie with a wheelbarrow and bring in the dime. It's really about a dime. A packet of cigarettes will bank you for anything from $3.50 to $11.95, but don't let that worry you. It all depends on what money you pay in and whether or not it's good. A counterfeit Canadian bill would probably buy 200 packets of cigarettes. There is an uncommon rumor around town today that some of the Canadian bills are actually good, but this naturally is laughed at by the wise guys.

ADMIRAL NEEDS WHEELBARROW

Just now the army is mad at the navy and Marcus Cohen, a London Jew, has been called in as referee. Cohen has been created supreme high general and wears a uniform which outwanks the grand high Pooah Bah of an Alabama lodge by four yards of gold braid and a paul of silver buttons.

First thing General Cohen did was get himself named purchasing agent for the army, navy and air force—if any. Then after a small or two he realized it would be much more central if he had his office in Hongkong. So now he's enthroned in the Hongkong Hotel, uniform and all. He fights all the Cantonese battles by the Culbertson system and hasn't so far been shot for paying his losses in Canton money. Of course he has to have a man always handy with a wheelbarrow, but men with wheelbarrows are easy to find.

Lots of people view Canton with growing concern, but to me it's just a guffaw. Of course they have a murder or two every hour and the British consul tells you not to go there, but it's all very amusing because everybody laughs.

Take the army mix-up you may have been reading about. The navy was anchored out in the river. No fool is going to take a chance on sending that navy out to sea. If they did, where would the admiral's wives be? Well, anyway the navy was in the river and it was washday. Nightshirts and fluff dummies and things like that were dangling from the smokestacks and wireless antennae and things.

ADMIRAL QUILTS

Suddenly the admiral—that is the boss admiral—got sore about something. He said he was fed up being an admiral anyhow and he was quitting. He had his sailors row him ashore among the half-million junks anchored there and he swore he wouldn't play sailor any more. I happened to go on the quay when the admiral came in. He was fat and roly-poly, with a white moustache and yards of gold braid. He sat on the quay watching the spare shirts flutter from the foremast of his flagship and apparently felt very hurt because nobody came out to ask him back again.

He stayed on the quay most of the day, and about supper time threatened to go back aboard and blow up the army. He might have done it, too, only, of course, he didn't have any ammunition. If you think I'm trying to be funny in all this, dig into the records. The place here is so topsy-turvy you go boughouse trying to keep track of admiral just now, only he hasn't learned about compasses and things yet.

The streets all tumble and fester

Honored at Edinburgh

SIR Josiah Stamp (left), director of the Bank of England, is shown with Andrew W. Mellon (right), United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James, as they marched in the procession which marked the commencement exercises at Edinburgh University. Both men were honored by the bestowal of honorary degree from the historic seat of learning during the ceremonies.

in among each other, and you find fabulous mountains of red paper bags, big slabs of jade waiting the hand of the master carver, silver-smiths who can do tricks with metal at about eight cents a spoon. You can buy a whole tea set of solid silver spoons for the cost of a movie at home, and then find the government man swooping down on you to demand anything from 200 to 1,000 per cent export duty.

You say to the customs man, "Ally, kemch seek on jaw suppose you no go away," so he says, "All right," and wishes. Imagine handing that stuff to a Canadian suitor of search. Now and again you slip the examiner a plugged coin and he's your pal for the rest of the day.

Canton thinks it has about a million people, but couldn't be sure. It's 700,000 or so. They used to have statistics, but chucked them overboard back in the Rosco, Boco dynasty, and since then it's been easier to get a divorce than a marriage. It sometimes takes a whole minute to get married.

BURY ONLY TRAVELERS

The "rights" to which all tourists go include a memorial to Sun Yat Sen, the Pagoda of the Dawn and the graveyards of a million folks who died in Windsor or Sault Ste. Marie or Medicine Hat. If you die 6,000 miles away they ship you home and bury you in great state, but if you happen to pass out on your own front porch that's just you into the river. Very handy.

The forty-mile railway journey to Hongkong has recently been cut down from six to four hours, and once a train was on time. One thing the Cantonese have decided to abolish is the right of freemen to play horse. Particularly if he hops into the shays and runs a fellow like you or for ten miles for one-sixteenth of a cent. They can't quite see what the human horse gets out of all this. He collects his quarter of the stake and the man who owns the rickshaw comes and takes it off him, so who wins?

JUST A SIDE SHOW

I don't know, but I do know I'm moving out of here in a hurry. I ever bed down to try and dope out an intelligent yarn on Canton. I'll wind up in a side show. That's really what Canton is—a big side show where life is free and easy and room with bath means a hunk of canoe under the silvery moon. "My ex-movie man pal and I were beached here by river-front tough guys, and so far the Californian hasn't been able to see the humor in the situation. He had three cameras worth about $700 and now he has none. I had one worth about $6.89 and now I have none either, but I'm still having a lot of fun.

We've been sort of prowling around all day watching the wood carvers work carve and the pearl setters pearl set. So far as getting movies are concerned, we just came along for the ride. Late this afternoon we were sitting beside a what eating thing out of cans when the worst saxophone player in the world decided to serenade us. The movie man thought this was a picnic, but didn't have a camera. Not having a camera makes a movie man sad, so he said we'd better get out of town. "How you going to go?" "On the boat—that boat with the Sikh machine gunners on it."

HIRING A WARSHIP

"Well, that's Hongkong nonstop. Aren't you going to try to get your cameras back?" "Yes, but I'll come up to the border by road again." "No," I said. "I got a better plan. We'll hire a battleship." "Well, what?" "Hire a battleship. We should get one for about $4 cash complete with one admiral and four captains. Then we'll go down and demand our cameras back." "It must be the heat," the Californian said. "Not heat," I said. "They can only say no. We could hire the army for ten berries." "Sure you haven't been drinking this Chinese liquor?" "Not a drop. We'll sleep on one of these junks."

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

BIDDING FREAK HOLDINGS

Freak holdings are a law unto themselves, and it is difficult, indeed, to lay down rules that can be followed when a freak meets a freak in the mental play that is known as bidding.

An extremely interesting example of freak hands and unusual bidding occurred recently in a duplicate bridge game at the Women's Bridge Club in Hollywood, California, in which a variety of results were reached on the hands pictured below.

West-Dealer. Both sides vulnerable.

♠ K Q 6 5
♥ K 7 6 5
♦ Q J 7 5 2

♦ A K 10 9
♣ A K 6 5 2

A number of East and West players reached a contract of seven clubs, which was, of course, made.

At one table, however, North and South reached and made a contract of seven spades. As both sides were vulnerable, this represented a swing of 4350 points as a result of the bidding.

The successful bidding for North and South was as follows: (Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

West North East South
20 (1) Pass 2NT 30 (2)
34 (3) 44 (4) 5 5
6 6 Pass Pass
7 (5) 6 Pass Pass
Pass Pass 74 (6)
Pass Pass

1. Although the hand contains only four honor tricks, the distribution is so unusual as to warrant opening with a forcing bid of two. 2. A most unusual raise, forcing partner to keep the bidding open after opponents have opened with an opening bid of two in a suit. 3. While West might double South's three diamond bid, it would be an empty gesture. He, therefore, discloses his second strong suit. 4. North has a really strong hand opposite his partner's extremely strong bid. To pass would be only the counsel of timidity. 5. West feels reasonably sure that he can make seven clubs. He does not feel certain that he can defeat six spades. In any event, the slight risk of losing the grand slam is to be preferred to West's West's freakish hand, that North and South may make a small slam in spades. 6. South, warned by his own extremely freakish distribution, is far from certain that his two aces will produce one trick with which to set the grand slam contract. In view of partner's free bid, he reasons that, at least, he should be down two tricks—a small price to pay for preventing a vulnerable grand slam. 7. In the play, seven spades of course were made, as South did not make the mistake of laying down the ace of hearts.

Conference May Be Turning Point Professor Soward Tells Kiwanians

Whatever may happen between now and the end of the present year, the world may know that the Lausanne Conference produced something of value to nations, and the result of the deliberations may mark the turning point in economic history, was the opinion expressed by Professor J. H. Soward, head of the history department of the University of British Columbia, in an address to the members of the Victoria Kiwanis Club yesterday.

Although Professor Soward's address was to have been on the Lausanne Conference solely, his fund of knowledge of international history led him into distant channels, and the result was a complete summary of economic events affecting the whole world from the close of the Great War until the conference at Lausanne. The importance of the latter was emphasized by Professor Soward and its benefits to nations. He said it would be known when the full and complete report of the conference is available to the public.

GROWING DISTRUST

The growing distrust by the world of the possibility of peace through international conferences was definitely dispelled by the Lausanne Conference, and there was instead, the creation of a better feeling between the nations involved in the discussion. It was possible under the old system of individual diplomacy, Professor Soward believed.

Going back to the question of reparations as set out in the peace treaty, Professor Soward touched upon the many and varied efforts that had been made by international negotiations to settle the vexed problem of reparations and allied war debts through the difficulties experienced by debtor nations in making payments demanded by the treaty. In all of these negotiations there was a certain amount of distrust, and this feeling of distrust culminated in the occupation of the Ruhr as against Germany. This and other complications were responsible for the collapse of German currency.

DEBT CANCELLATION

The question of cancellation of war debts was attracting the attention of all nations, but there were many difficulties in the path of the negotiations, due to the termination of one or more nations to wholly refuse to consider such a policy. This has produced a number of complications that will be exceedingly difficult to set aside, and it may be that a compromise will be effected in the form of a postponement of debts until some improvement in world conditions is noted. In this respect, Professor Soward stated, that if the nations were to agree to a policy of reduction of armaments, it may make it easier for nations to proceed with the cancellation or postponement policy. In this, he said, there was need for greater international co-operation.

The speaker believed that the cancellation of war debts would be a good thing for everyone. He also stressed the greatest need at present, and in the future, of a freer trade between nations. He described tariffs as suicidal to international trade, which was one of the main reasons for the breakdown of foreign currency.

Professor Soward was introduced by W. Ellis Brown, president of Kiwanis, and the vote of thanks was moved by B. C. Nicholas. During the luncheon, Mrs. T. R. Bowden gave two solos and was accompanied by Leonard Acres.

DUMPING BUTY AIDS GROWERS

Local Wholesalers Claim Tax Is Proving a Safeguard to British Columbia Farmer

British Columbia fruit growers are rejoicing in the protection being given by the dumping duty, it was announced by dealers along wholesale row yesterday.

In nearly every line of produce this tax has during the past year offered protection to Canadian growers, and now that apricots are appearing in strength upon the markets here, its value is even more strongly felt.

During the past few years, the majority of apricots and peaches sold here have come from the United States, and have been sold at a price much lower than the local growers could compete with, but this season the tax has largely revised matters.

Hardly any of the American fruit has been handled in this city, while already shipments are beginning to come in from the Okanagan Valley and other points in the province.

BENEFITS TWOFOLD

The benefits felt by this home trade are twofold. First, the retail cost of apricots is less than it has been for some years past, and secondly, the farmers, at point of co-operation, are receiving nearly double the amount that their competitors across the line are getting for their produce even though it were to sell here at the same price. Local wholesalers are also endeavoring to encourage inter-province trade more than ever before, and already large shipments of Australian oranges and lemons are arriving in the city, and reports show that both in quality and in price the produce of the Commonwealth is a fit competitor for that of any country in the world.

FUNERAL TODAY

The funeral of Alexander Taylor Macaulay, who passed away at the Royal Jubilee Hospital last Sunday, will take place this afternoon, at 2 o'clock, from the Sands Mortuary Chapel. Rev. J. S. Patterson will officiate, and the remains will be laid to rest in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

SIR HENRY THORNTON'S RESIGNATION

The resignation of Sir Henry Thornton as President of the Canadian National Railways comes as no surprise. It is unquestionably the outcome of the policies he pursued in the conduct of that system, policies which have heavily increased its burden of capital indebtedness, and of a character which unhappily showed a lack of vision affecting conditions. Moreover, he mistook the aims of the national road which were to be for development and economic purposes, and not that it should be geared up as a competitive system, a process in which it has inflicted heavy deficits which the taxpayers have to meet.

Sir Henry has resigned in advance of the report of the Transportation Commission. It may well be believed that he has anticipated a situation in which he would have had difficulty in carrying on the duties that would have fallen to his lot. By that we mean that the report of the Commission is bound to reflect on the extravagances of the Canadian National system under Sir Henry's guidance, and these, in his future course of action, however devised, would have proved a handicap to efficient management. The railway will function under the temporary presidency of Mr. S. J. Hingford. It may be presumed no new appointment will be made pending the Transportation Commission's report.

There are those who will laud the achievements of Sir Henry Thornton because of the manner in which the various railways comprising the National System were welded together, and because of the character of the service built up in the course of his presidency. In these respects he did useful work, but it is not difficult to succeed in any matter, and especially in one of great ramifications, where expense is no object. The taxpayers' money was at stake and it was spent lavishly, as if it came from a Fortunatus purse. Through his bountiful administration, and because of personal characteristics which appealed, Sir Henry won a very large measure of loyalty from the employees of the Canadian National Railways of all ranks. That loyalty has now become a part of the system.

In times of glowing prosperity there are those who have nothing but praise for a good spender, even when it is the taxpayers' money that is being spent. In cases like that of the Canadian National, however, there is always the morning after and it is easily conceivable that Sir Henry's fame as a railway administrator could not have survived the recent inquiry of the Railway Committee of Parliament, and the pending report of the Transportation Commission. He has chosen the course which is probably best for himself and for Canada.

FINANCIERS AND GOLD

The economic pundits, monetary theorists and currency curators have been suflusing the world with panaceas for the present depression, and proposing revolutions in the medium of exchange that has prevailed in the past. There are the inflationists, the bimetalists, the financial witch-doctors and countless others who have rushed into discussions about which only a handful of men in the world are really well informed. The practical financiers, those who have worked at the profession; those who safeguard the credit upon which any monetary system revolves, have not been influenced by the plethora of mixed opinion that has been hurled at their heads. It is facts not theories with which they are confronted, and the consensus of opinion among those who have the conduct of financial affairs in their hands is that when the first favorable opportunity presents itself the world should return to the gold standard.

Britain officially is determined to resume the gold standard when conditions are ripe. This decision is sustained by the declaration of Mr. Montague Norman, Governor of the Bank of England, who has signed a statement to this effect on behalf of the Bank of International Settlements. This decision is subscribed to by the representatives of Sweden and Japan. The Basel resolution says, "It believes it is desirable to prepare steps for adopting all measures necessary for re-establishment of the operation of the gold standard." The issue in the minds of practical financiers is not that of abandoning the gold standard, or of retaining it, but of getting back to it. The Basel resolution, which discusses no alternative, is sufficient indication of expert opinion. It says that gold remains, "the monetary mechanism which best meets stability and security because it is the most appropriate to assure free movement of world commerce and international financial operations."

BRITAIN'S CONVERSION LOAN

It is a big financial transaction upon which the people are engaged in Great Britain in the conversion of the £2,000,000,000 5 per cent War Loan to 3½ per cent security. The holders of the War Loan are responding magnificently. Already success is assured, and the magnitude of the operation has aroused the admiration of the world. The British people, no others better, know how to make sacrifices when their patriotism assures them they are needed. They have done so again and again in recent years. It is by their own exertions, not by the exertions of government, that they are emerging better than any other nation from the present crisis.

The refunded loan is being exchanged for 3½ per cent bonds, callable on or after December 1, 1932, at par. The 5 per cent loan is being deemed at par, with a cash bonus of 1 per cent for those who convert into the new issue before July 31. That means that holders of the old loan can take cash if they prefer to do so, but such is the desire of the people to play their part in the present emergency that very few holders are applying for cash. Under the conversion scheme the annual saving to the British Treasury is estimated at £30,000,000, less the smaller receipts which will be derived from income tax and surtax, estimated at £7,000,000. That means that the net annual saving in payment of interest on Government securities is £23,000,000.

British Government securities have risen substantially since the conversion loan was launched. In fact the whole London market has shown increasing strength. There is a better feeling abroad. Those qualified to judge believe that economic affairs are trending upwards; that the worst is over, and that the measures taken by the British people are definitely strengthening British stability. Britain is not only coming back; in many respects she has arrived. There is an indication of her position in the current monthly letter of the Royal Bank, which says:

"The London and Cambridge Index of Industrial production, with a base of 100 in 1924, reached a high point of only 116.2 in 1929 and fell to 99.1 in 1931. In the United States the composite index of industrial production, compiled by Standard Statistics, with a base of 100 in January, 1923, rose to 128.7 for the year 1929 and fell to 81.7 in 1931. It is now down to 60, while reports from Great Britain seem to indicate that the index of industrial production for 1932 will remain at a level between 95 and 100." The measure of industrial stability that Britain has shown is symptomatic of the resourcefulness of her people and the soundness of established productivity.

LIAISON OFFICER

Dr. R. J. Manion is to act as liaison officer between the press representatives gathered in Ottawa and the Imperial Conference. The sessions of that Conference will be held in private. Daily an official communiqué will be prepared which Dr. Manion will convey to the press. Moreover, he will submit to questions regarding what has been discussed, and possibly as regards the attitude of the delegates from various parts of the Empire. Dr. Manion will be one of Canada's delegates to the Conference, so that he will be informed of everything that is happening. His choice as liaison officer, in addition to his other duties, imposes a heavy burden on him. The choice, however, is a wise one. Dr. Manion is endowed with patience that covers a wide range, and tact wholly sufficient to meet a situation in which he is likely to have to submit to a barrage of questions each day.

The St. Lawrence Waterways Agreement ought to provide a field day for lawyers. Quebec is definitely opposed to the project and is to fight any threatened infringement of her provincial rights. Any case arising out of the agreement will, of course, be carried to the Imperial Privy Council for decision. In its process through the courts a lengthy period will elapse, and there may be different test cases arising at different times. The present agreement gives promise of becoming a cause celebre in the matter of litigation arising out of attempts to put its provisions into effect.

The New York Herald-Tribune speaks plainly of the desire of the people of the United States to get rid of the Eighteenth Amendment. It is not because they are thirsty, because, "heaven knows they have plenty and to spare of intoxicants as it is." They want to get rid of it because the United States "would regain its local autonomy, bring a traffic into the open that is now a festering sore in its vitals, cleanse the Constitution of a police statute and its body politic of criminal dominance. A modification of the Volstead Act will do none of these things."

DEMOCRATIC REPEAL PLANK

Nine days ago, before sailing for Europe, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University and a prominent Republican, publicly declared that if the Democratic National Convention adopted a straightforward plank declaring for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, it would bring to the Democratic Party 6,000,000 votes of Republicans. Dr. Butler was speaking, of course, of his own seal for repeal, and could have no actual knowledge of the impressionable number, but undoubtedly many Republicans will prefer the Democratic repeal plank because it is more definite and honest than that of the Republicans, and it is not an unreasonable estimate of the G.O.P. deserters on the prohibition issue.—Montreal Gazette.

If God were not a necessary Being of Himself, He might almost seem to be made for the use and benefit of men.—John Tillotson.

Note and Comment

The best-laid schemes of mice and men
Gone with the wind.

To the Editor:
Sir,—Your editorial in this morning's Colonist on the British constitution is interesting reading. You state that Overseas Dominion Governors have been known to dismiss governments and that governments have been dismissed from office in Canada by Lieutenant-Governors but such incidents are rare. To settle a controversy, could any of your readers inform me if any British Columbia government has been dismissed from office and for what reason?

HENRY LYALL.

Oak Bay, B.C., July 15, 1932.

As a regular reader of the editorials printed in The Colonist for many years, as a regular reader whose interest in the editorials increases with every succeeding year, possibly we may be excused if we take the liberty of answering the question, and we hope of settling the controversy. In the Spring of the year 1900 the British Columbia government of Hon. Q. A. Semlin was dismissed from office by Hon. T. R. McInnes, and on March 1 of the same year Hon. Joseph Martin was called upon to form a government by the then Lieut.-Governor. The fact may be presumed that the Semlin government was dismissed from office because it had, for some reason or other, forfeited the confidence of the representative of the Ottawa government and of the Crown.

The above is a brief outline of one of the most sensational incidents in the political history of British Columbia. In those interesting old times the public affairs of the provinces had been administered on what modern political critics call "non-party principles." Hon. T. R. McInnes proposed to be an advocate and exponent of Liberal political principles, and was appointed to his high office by a Liberal government. Hon. Q. A. Semlin, a Conservative, was appointed to his high office by a Liberal government. Hon. Q. A. Semlin, a Conservative, was appointed to his high office by a Liberal government.

Hon. C. A. Semlin, a man whose private character was without reproach and whose public career was without blemish, although a Conservative, was supported in the legislature by Liberals as well as Conservatives and members who preferred to designate themselves as Independents. But evidently this confused and unstable condition of political affairs did not meet with the approval of the governor. At any rate, Mr. McInnes dismissed Mr. C. A. Semlin, a Conservative, from office, and called upon Mr. Joseph Martin, a Liberal, to form an administration.

Mr. Martin cheerfully accepted the task and formed a Liberal government. A man of less assurance might have hesitated to accept such responsibility, for the fact was evident to everybody that a comparative stranger from the East would have great difficulty in selecting a government which would be endorsed by the electorate of the province. But Mr. Martin succeeded in forming, whatever accredited historians may say about it, the first party-line government in British Columbia. But what a time he had in forming it, and what a government it was after he had formed it!

The important post of Finance Minister was given to a gentleman named Cory S. Ryder whose name was unknown to anybody in Victoria and to a very few people in any part of the province. Another important post, that of Minister of Agriculture, was bestowed upon Mr. George Washington Beebe, whom nobody outside of the Fraser Valley ever had seen or read about, an estimable gentleman but an agriculturist in a comparatively small way. The new Premier had great difficulty in selecting a lawyer of repute to round out what has been described as a cabinet of curios.

Hon. L. P. Duff, now of the Supreme Court of Canada, then a practising lawyer in Victoria, tells a curious tale about the manner in which Mr. Martin selected the last and most important member of his cabinet.

The legal office of Bodwell & Duff was in an upstairs office in a building on Government Street. One day the new Premier entered the office of the law firm in a great hurry, found Mr. Duff alone, told him of the difficulties he was meeting, and asked him to become Attorney-General in his government. The lawyer declared that he was both honored and flattered, but must decline the appointment. The two eminent men were looking out of a front window while they were talking, when Mr. Duff exclaimed (travelling the money in his trousers pockets in a characteristic way): "By Jove, Joe, there is your man walking down the street." Mr. J. Stuart Yates was passing. The Premier rushed out, grabbed Mr. Yates by the arm, hurried him to the Parliament Buildings and had him sworn in as the only really representative citizen in the cabinet of curios. Mr. Yates may tell a different version of this story, but we tell it as it was told to us.

It is a story, but we tell it as it was told to us.

In due time the first Liberal government went to the country—and never came back. We believe, speaking from memory and without consulting authorities, that in the election of 1900 but one orthodox Liberal returned to the House, Hon. H. C. Brewster, who then became leader of a party of one and subsequently Premier in a Liberal government. Hon. T. R. McInnes disappeared as a political figure.

FOURTH ESTATE IS GIVEN ITS DUE

Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin Courteous on Meeting Canadian Reporters

OTTAWA, July 19 (CP).—With an affable smile, Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, head of the British delegation to the Imperial Conference, greeted newspapermen on the station platform here today. Premier R. B. Bennett was introducing Mr. Baldwin to prominent people who had come to welcome the delegations.

"And these," said Mr. Bennett with an introductory wave of his hand to the reporters, "are the newspapermen."

"Reviewers of the truth," remarked Mr. Baldwin musingly as he cast his eye over the ranks.

Mr. Bennett smilingly demurred. "Well you can't always be quite sure of that," he said.

"Truth has many facets," Mr. Baldwin reminded him, and the two passed on down the platform.

The Rhyming Optimist

By Aline Michells

THE EVERLASTING ARMS
To be relaxed in Love at last to know
The buoyant strength a weary
Beneath him when, worn out, he must let go
For his struggle with the waves and winds
To float, to drift like sea-weed off like spray
To merge with ocean, with the singing sea;
To let his cares, forgotten, drop away.
Himself a fragment of eternity!
This is to know the Everlasting Arms.
To be uplifted into peace at length,
Secure against all tempests and alarms,
Safe in the shelter of unfailing strength.
Unheeding all life's angry winds and waves,
To lie relaxed in Love that soothes and saves!

The time used is Pacific standard for 12th Meridian west. It is counted from 9 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for high tide are to be added to the figures for low tide. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during the 24-hour period, without turning back. The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average low water.

VETERANS WILL HOLD BIG RALLY

Ex-Service Men of Vancouver Island to Attend Reunion at Nanaimo

Plans are being completed for the massed reunion of all ex-service men of Vancouver Island to be held on Thursday, August 4, at Nanaimo. This is the first time a real social get-together of this type has been attempted and it is firmly expected that the undertaking will prove a success.

Ex-service men's clubs from all over the island are sending representatives and many war veterans who are not affiliated with any of the clubs are expected to be in attendance.

A fine programme is being arranged and, although it has not definitely been announced, it is generally thought that the festivities will open with a parade through the streets of Nanaimo, headed by the Nanaimo Silver Cornet Band, followed by supper. The day's programme will close with an open-air smoking

"YES, I AM 40 YEARS OLD!"
says Irene Rich

"YES, I am 40 years old. I don't mind confessing it a bit," says Irene Rich, "and I have two grown daughters of whom I am very proud. A screen star never worries about birthdays, you know."

But, in Hollywood, they guard complexion beauty above all else. They know it says youth quicker than anything else.

How does this lovely star guard complexion beauty? Just as so many other Hollywood actresses do—66¢ of the 69¢ important one! "I have used Lux Toilet Soap regularly for years," she says, "and am very grateful for it."

Surely you will want to try this fragrant, white soap. The caress of dollar-a-cake French soap for 10c!

DEMAND CUT IN SCHOOL COSTS

Resolution Adopted at Meeting of Ratepayers' Association Calls For Reductions

The Victoria Ratepayers' Association, at its public meeting last evening, adopted a resolution calling for radical action in reducing the cost of education. This resolution read as follows:

"1. That the cost of education throughout the province should be immediately reduced by at least 50 per cent.
"2. That in the opinion of this meeting the responsibility for providing education is that of the province, and the Provincial Government should assume such responsibility and relieve the municipalities thereof.
"3. That the cost of education should be removed from the land, and the same provided for by a special educational tax to be levied generally, so that the burden of such taxation shall be more equitably distributed."

ATTACKS SYSTEM
The resolution was moved by W. J. Warner, who said that he was not attacking the school trustees, but rather the system. He proposed to cut the high schools off the free list. A free elementary education up to fifteen years was all that was necessary. Out of a total cost of $10,051,000 for schools in the province in one year, the high schools cost $2,000,000. People had got swollen heads, he said, in the matter of education, just as in other things.

"If a man can read, write and cipher, what more does he want?" asked E. B. Andros in seconding the resolution. "I had no education," he continued. "I had to go to work. Mr. Andros said that if anything more was required, let those who got it pay for it."

SUPPORTS PROPOSAL
John Gibbs, of Duncan, supporting the resolution, pointed out as president of the Cowichan Creamery that farmers, who three years ago were getting forty-five cents per pound for butterfat, were now getting only eighteen cents. Forty-five per cent of the taxes paid by the farmers was paid for education. C. R. Drayton, also of Duncan, advocated balancing the budget in an educational way. If necessary, cut down more than half the cost, he urged.

DEATH REMOVES AGED RESIDENT

J. R. Grice Succumbs in Hospital—Lived Here for Forty-Three Years

After forty-three years' residence in Victoria, during which time he became widely known throughout the city and province, forming a large circle of friends who held him in high respect, John Richard Grice, 2622 Blanshard Street, passed away at the St. Joseph's Hospital on Monday night, at the age of seventy years. Mr. Grice had been in failing health for the past six months, and had been confined to the hospital for about a week at the time of his death.

Born in Market Rising, Lincolnshire, England, Mr. Grice came to Canada with his parents when he was twelve years old, the family locating in Oshawa, Ont., where they commenced farming.

CAME TO VICTORIA
In 1889, Mr. Grice came West to Victoria and shortly after taking up his residence on Blanshard Street, he joined the B.C. Electric Railway Company as a street railwayman. For thirty-three years he held this post, and during this time became popular with a large number of associates, who will regret the news of his death.

In 1905, he married and continued living on Blanshard Street, where his family resides at present.

RETIRED FROM SERVICE
Ten years ago he retired from the B.C. Electric service and has spent the last few years enjoying life after the trying times which first confronted him on his arrival in Canada.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, Henry Clarence, of the United Artists' Studio, of Los Angeles, and William Norman, of the circulation department of The Colonist; one brother, Thomas, of Victoria; and one sister, Mrs. J. C. Ryan, of Pickering, Ont.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock from Hayward's Funeral Parlors, and interment will be made in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery. Rev. Dr. J. K. Unsworth will officiate.

DOUBLE STARS ARE EXAMINED

Summer Study Group of Astronomical Society Has Interesting Session

The second session of the Summer study group under the auspices of the Astronomical Society, was held last night at the home of H. B. Brydon, Transit Road, and again brought an enthusiastic gathering of students together.

The speaker was W. E. Harper, of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, who used lantern slides to demonstrate certain points about the positions of the constellations before the class was taken over to Mr. Brydon's observatory to see some of the objects described with the assistance of the refracting telescope.

The formal part of the proceedings were presided over by F. H. Hughes, president of the society, who announced that Mr. Brydon would be the speaker at next Tuesday's meeting, discussing some problems of the Celestial sphere.

We have separated motor oil from its bad companions

Formerly, motor oil was inseparable from certain bad companions. Those compounds which cause carbon, gum and sludge in your motor could not be eliminated by ordinary refining methods. Our new Super-Refining Process removes this troublesome trio. The New Marvelube is the purest of motor oils, which means that it has no rival as an ideal lubricant for your car, truck or tractor. Purity means lasting body, because there is nothing in the New Marvelube to break down. Lasting body means full protection for your engine at all times—greater efficiency—greater economy—freedom from unnecessary repair and maintenance charges. The New Marvelube is kind to your engine—and your purse. Worth more to you—yet it sells at the regular price.

Whether you change oil every 500 miles or every 2,500 miles, you will get better results with the New Marvelube. Most Automobile manufacturers recommend changing oil every 500 miles because oil gets dirty in use and accumulates road grit and other injurious substances.

MARINE and TRANSPORTATION

Eight New Planes
Will Cut Time to Africa Three DaysImperial Airways Testing First of Monster Mono-planes Claimed to Be Fastest and Most Luxurious Civil Aircraft in the World

LONDON, July 19.—Atlanta, first of a fleet of eight large mono-planes intended for service on the African routes of Imperial Airways, is undergoing extensive trials in the hands of official test pilots. Several other craft, each of which will receive a name similarly derived from classical mythology, are in various stages of construction at the Coventry works of the Armstrong Whitworth Company; they are expected to take the air at intervals during the next two or three months.

From start to finish the new air liners were planned to meet the difficult flying conditions and great heat along thousands of miles of the African airway. No fewer than seven of the aerodromes between Cairo and Cape Town are located more than 5,000 feet above sea level. The new air liners are designed to operate normally at a height of 9,000 feet, even with one of the four motors completely stopped, and to cruise easily on not more than two-thirds of full power at that height—a point of performance that means ample power reserve for take-off in the hot, thin air of the high aerodromes, and long "life" of the power units.

POWERFUL ENGINES
Each of the new aircraft is powered with four "double Monsoons" 340 horsepower, air-cooled radial motors installed in streamlined nacelles in the leading, or front, edge of the monoplane wings. The landing wheels are encased in metal streamlined covers, and the huge wing is built on the cantilever principle without external supporting struts or wires. In the upshot the new machines are the most beautiful big commercial aircraft yet built, and their power and performance are correspondingly impressive.

With full load on board the Atlanta weighs 18,500 pounds, nearly eight and a half tons, of which 5,600 pounds is represented by "disposable" load of crew, fuel, passengers, mail and freight. Carrying a full and oil sufficient for 400 miles in still air while cruising at 118 miles per hour, the maximum payload plus crew stands at the high figure of 4,000 pounds. Flying with one engine stopped, the aeroplane can maintain level flight at no less than ninety miles per hour at its operational height of 9,000 feet. Top speed on the full power of all four motors is around 150 miles per hour.

STEEL CONSTRUCTION
From tip to tip the great wings span ninety feet. The aeroplane is seventy-one and a half feet long from nose to tail and fourteen feet high. The main plane measures 1,285 square feet in area. Wheel brakes enable the craft to be pulled up in still air on an average aerodrome in less than 220 yards from the point of first contact with the ground, even if the air density is equivalent to that prevailing at a height of 7,000 feet.

They are among the fastest civil aircraft of comparable size yet built anywhere in the world, and the time schedule for the regular journey between London and the Cape may accordingly be cut from eleven days to nine.

All-Canadian Title for Docking Liners

To Victoria will go the honor of having drydocked the largest liner in Canada when the Canadian Pacific steamship Empress of Japan comes here Friday for her annual cleaning and painting, was announced by officials of Yarrows Limited, yesterday.

The Empress of Japan is 26,032 tons, the largest liner operating on the Pacific and the largest ship scheduled for drydocking here. Even though she is the biggest vessel afloat on the Pacific, she will seem a small craft for the Esquimalt drydock to handle. The first two sections can handle this vessel and there will still be room to dock the Princess Marguerite, if necessary.

The drydock is 1,186 feet in length and contains 43,000,000 gallons of water. It takes from two and a half to two and three-quarter hours to empty the huge basin, but it will be ready at 7 o'clock Friday morning for the Empress of Japan.

TO RUSH WORK
Yarrows will give her a fresh water bath, scrape the barnacles off the hull, paint and refloat her by Saturday afternoon.

Owing to the fact that a rush job is being done on the vessel, the public will be excluded from the dock so that there will be no interference, it was stated. The Esquimalt drydock is the second largest basin in the world and is capable of handling almost any size liner afloat, except one of the ultra-modern liners operating on the Atlantic.

ADMIRAL LINER TAKES BIG LIST
Ss. H. F. Alexander Sails for California Ports — One Hundred Embark Here

With all passenger accommodation sold out, the Admiral liner H. F. Alexander sailed for California ports at 10 o'clock last night. Among those on board was a large number of sportsmen, comprising the Canadian teams going to the Olympic Games in Los Angeles. The vessel arrived here from Seattle at 8 p.m. to take on approximately a hundred passengers and pick up 400 bales of raw silk left here by the Ss. Empress of Japan. This silk will be transhipped at San Francisco to be sent to New York via the Panama Canal.

PASSENGER LIST
Among the passengers embarking here were: H. E. Herschorn, of Toronto, manager of the Canadian Olympic swimming team; Lew Rush and Glen Robbins, local boys, who will ride in the Olympic bicycle races; Frank Elliott and Leo Marchiori, riders from Vancouver; Mrs. Mabel Wright, Miss Esther Guthrie, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Voick, returning to their home in the South after visiting for a month in Victoria as guests at the Empress Hotel; James H. Cheek, of the Cheek-Neal Coffee Company, of Los Angeles, accompanied by Mrs. Cheek and James H. Cheek, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beale, of Los Angeles, returning to their home in the South after a trip to Alaska by the Ss. Prince Robert and an extensive motor tour of Vancouver Island; and James Brader and Miss M. Darwell, of Nanaimo, who will visit friends in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Pilchard Reduction Plants Are Idle Over Wage Dispute
THE first run of pilchard this season occurred off Nootka Sound on Monday, it was announced yesterday by J. L. Beckwith, who is connected with several of the West Coast fishing plants. The Nootka Packing Company, at Nootka, was the first plant to start its machinery working this season. No other reduction plant has yet started.

This is largely due, it was stated, to the dispute between fishermen and reduction plant operators over the price that should be paid per ton to the fishermen. The fishermen are standing out for $2 a ton, it was stated, while the plants are offering $1.65 a ton. As yet no settlement has been reached. Last year the fishermen received $2 a ton and three years ago the price was $4 a ton.

Owing to the low price for pilchard oil and meal this year, many of the plants will not be operating. Those that will, however, are the Northern Packing Company, at Ecolee; McBride & Blackwell, at Toquart and McBride Bay; Nelson Brothers, at Ucluelet; Ceepeece, at Ucluelet; Watson's, at Matilda Creek; and Nootka Packing Company, at Nootka.

The Island Packing Company may also start at Queens Cove. None of the Kuyquut plants on Quatsino Sound will operate this year, it was stated.

Approximately 400 persons arrived here yesterday from Seattle, at 1:30 p.m., on the excursion ship Indianapolis. After taking a sightseeing trip and being given time to do a little shopping, they returned to the Puget Sound port at 5 p.m.

The steamer Alaskan also docked from Seattle at 2 p.m., bringing 200 tourists, who are en route to Alaska ports. Sightseeing drives were arranged, and the passengers were given an enjoyable visit before proceeding northbound at 5 p.m.

Ursuline Graduates Follow Old Route to Famous Monastery

Former Pupils of Quebec School Will Reunite in Cloisters During August—Girlhood Days Will Be Relived

QUEBEC, July 19. — The finest families of the New World will be represented at the first reunion ever to be held by graduates of the 300-year-old Ursuline Monastery at Quebec on August 16. Since the days of Champlain, the sisters at the monastery in the Rue St. Anne have trained in education and social graces, girls who have been among the first women of the Americas.

These women will seek the old monastery by the route which their ancestors first took when they came up to Quebec—along the mighty St. Lawrence River. When the St. Richieu and St. Quebec docks at Quebec on August 16 there will be great-grandmothers, grandmothers, mothers and daughters returning together to the monastery where all received their training. It is a tradition in fine families to go to the Ursuline Monastery.

Once a pupil graduates, however, she may not again enter the cloister, but as a special privilege for this first gathering of graduates, Mother General has given permission that all the alumnae may come again within the cloister and live one day as they did in their girlhood.

HIGH MASS IN CHAPEL
His Excellency the Archbishop of Quebec will celebrate High Mass in the historic old chapel, where hang some of the finest masterpieces in the world. The too, are the tombs of Montcalm, Father Le

Over two thousand graduates are invited to the gathering this Summer, and several hundred have already accepted the invitation, with further acceptances reaching the committee daily. Mrs. M. Drouin, 114 Maple Avenue, Quebec, is the convener of transportation and reception for the graduates.

ARRANGING PROGRAMME
A committee of the graduates of this 300-year-old monastery is arranging the programme, which will be all of entertainment and of rejuvenation except for a short session, at which plans for the tri-centenary of the monastery will probably be discussed and the invitations sent all over the world to graduates to return to the monastery for a longer reunion than this first one.

Queen, and the lay brothers, Liegeons and Duperron—heroes who brought the quiet, resting places of those dishes which were their favorites during schooldays. Later there will be recreation, visits to the beautiful gardens and the old Ursulines when Champlain was Governor of New France. And over in one corner, grouped together, are the quiet, resting places of those devoted nuns who brought the first nursing service and the first girls' school to Canada.

Miss Charlotte Whitton Addresses Representative Group of Welfare Society Representatives at Luncheon Meeting Here

A central committee which, in its personnel, will embrace all the principal local organizations actively interested in social welfare work, is to be brought into being shortly as the result of the address given here at midday yesterday by Miss Charlotte Whitton, of Toronto, in connection with a luncheon given in her honor yesterday at noon at David Spencer's private dining-room. Such committee, according to the text of a resolution moved by Rt. Rev. C. de V. Schofield, Bishop of Columbia, will have authority to call a conference of all social workers of the city with a view to combining forces and concentrating resources to meet the social problems arising out of present-day or chronic conditions.

There was a capacity attendance at the luncheon, F. E. Winslow presiding. Among the organizations interested in social welfare represented at the gathering were the Social Service League, the Citizens' Relief, the Local Council of Women, the Y.W.C.A., the Unemployed Women's Workroom, and various churches of the city. The Provincial Government and the city were also officially represented, the latter by Mayor Leeming.

Miss Whitton spoke with her customary eloquence and conviction, and showed herself thoroughly well-versed in conditions throughout the Dominion. Her knowledge of social welfare needs in the West was supplemented by exhaustive study and observation during the six weeks she has spent in traveling through this part of the Dominion recently. In discussing the social welfare needs, she mentioned the plight of the unemployed as well as that of the aged.

The resolution introduced by Bishop Schofield followed her address. The first part, calling for the creation of the central committee, dwelt at some length on the character of its personnel, among the societies which it maintained should be represented on such committee being the Friendly Help Society, the Social Service League, and the Citizens' Relief Committee, and to Y.W.C.A., the Unemployed Women's Workroom, and various churches of the city. The Provincial Government and the city were also officially represented, the latter by Mayor Leeming.

Australians Score Quickly to Defeat New York All-Stars

Touring Cricketers Put On 174 Runs in Seventy Minutes—Nutt and Bradman Contribute Fine Totals—Fleetwood-Smith Bowls Well

LIVINGSTON, Staten Island, N.Y., July 19.—The Australian cricket team won their final game against time, at Livingston, Staten Island, today, by performing the almost impossible feat of scoring 152 runs in seventy minutes, which netted a victory of seven wickets against a picked New York team. Declaring their innings closed with 151 runs for eleven wickets, the New York skipper thought he was on the safe side, but reckoned without some very vigorous batting by the famous Don Bradman and R. N. Nutt, who put on 91 runs for the second wicket partnership in half an hour, and paved the way for the brilliant victory. Bradman made 57 runs in faultless style, while Nutt carried out his bat for a well-played innings of 69, which included nine 4's.

Three wickets were down for 134 when Captain Richardson came in, and he laid the wood on to such an extent that the necessary runs were piled up with only two minutes remaining.

Fleetwood-Smith was the most successful Australian bowler with six wickets for 41, Stan McCabe getting two for 25, and Don Bradman two for 27.

Tonight the Australian players will be the guests of the United States Cricket Association at a farewell banquet at the New York Athletic Club, and after seeing the Yankees and Chicago baseball game tomorrow, will leave for Detroit and Chicago before returning to Canada to continue their tour.

EXPLANATION FOR YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON
The Original Iron-Jawed Man—Hugh D. Evans, of Detroit, professionally known as Signor Lawanda, is P. T. Barnum's original "Iron-Jawed Man." In one performance he succeeded in lifting 1,400 pounds with his teeth. This unique lift was made by means of an attachment on the side of a barrel, the attachment being gripped by Evans' teeth.

The barrel filled with water was found to weigh 600 pounds, and the four men astride it weighed 800 pounds—a total of 1,400 pounds all suspended by the unbelievable vice-like grip of Evans' teeth.

Babe Ruth Will Be Back in Yank Line-Up Saturday

NEW YORK, July 19.—George Herman "Babe" Ruth, who tore a muscle in his left leg in yesterday's game with the Chicago White Sox, should be back in the Yankees' line-up Saturday, according to his trainer, Artie McGovern. "It's just a Charley horse," McGovern explained. The Babe is spending his enforced vacation on a couch.

FRENCH TEAM REACHES L.A. FOR SPORTS

Ninety-Three Athletes and Officials to Represent Nation

FINNISH SQUAD ALSO ON DECK

LOS ANGELES, July 19.—The pendulum of interest in the tenth Olympiad swings back to the European Continent after a big arc in the Asiatic direction, with the arrival of half-a-dozen teams here, today.

France heads the list, bringing to the international competition by special train, ninety-three athletes and officials, who will raise the total to the maximum of the Olympic village of the tri-colored of their country, increasing the number of nations represented to twenty-two.

Finland, Sweden and Poland from Europe, and Argentina and the United States, all of whom already are represented here, complete the list of expected guests.

The American delegation of approximately forty, includes the swimmers who won places in the national trials at New York and Cincinnati over the last week-end. Argentina's second entry totals eighteen, increasing that nation's forces here to more than fifty.

STAR RUNNER ON HAND
Poland, with its star distance runner, Janusz Kusocinski, already on hand, is bringing a squad of twenty-seven men and three women, including Stella Walsh, great woman athlete, who recently stated her preference of competing with this nation's team rather than the United States. The parade of the nations will continue through the week, with the Norwegian team of five due tomorrow, and parts of the United States, Canadian and German teams expected Thursday.

Friday, Mexico's aggregation of fifty men and one woman, and the team from Brazil are expected to put in their appearances.

WRESTLING FANS IN DUNCAN AND BYLUND TO SHOW ON DUNCAN CARD

Wrestling fans in Duncan and vicinity will be given a real treat Saturday evening, when Promoter Fred Richardson, local match-maker, puts on a first class dual main event featuring four of the fastest and cleverest middleweights in the Northwest. Ernie Arthur, Victoria, will clash with Ray Meyers, Kentucky, in one of the headliners, while the rough and rugged Steve Nenoff, Bulgaria, will tackle Bobbie Bylund, Minneapolis, in the second main attraction. The first bout will get under way at 8:45 o'clock, and a big crowd is expected.

This will be the first time that these four middleweights will have appeared at the Up-land centre. All of them are fast, clever and well versed in the mat pastime, which means the fans have plenty of action in store for them. Ernie Arthur has been setting a fast pace since his return from the Eastern States, and will be out to add Ray Meyers to his list. The Victorian defeated Nenoff in a bout to a finish last week, and took him into camp the week before when the Bulgarian fouled him in the last canto.

The Nenoff-Bylund mix is expected to be rough from start to finish. Nenoff is a bound for punishment, and noted for his rough tactics throughout. Bylund will weigh his opponent by several pounds, and therefore is expected to be a slight favorite.

F. PETROLLE WINS CALL

Defeats Bat Battalino in a Ten-Round Bout at New York

NEW YORK, July 19.—Frank Petrolle, younger brother of the more famous Billy, made it four straight for the Petrolle family over Bat Battalino, former featherweight champion, by winning a ten-round decision at the Queensboro Stadium tonight.

It was Frankie's second victory over the Hartford, Conn., battler, who previously had lost twice to Billy Petrolle.

Battalino looked like a winner to tonight until he ran smack into Petrolle's right fist in a four-round mixup, and went down for a count of nine. The blow slowed him down considerably for a few rounds, and by the time he recovered, Frankie was piling up enough points to win. Each weighed 141.

GUS SONNENBERG HURT IN CRASH

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 19.—Gus Sonnenberg, former claimant of the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, was brought to the Lawrence General Hospital today suffering from injuries received in an automobile accident.

Sonnenberg suffered lacerations of the hip, leg and hand and a possibly fractured rib. He was driving home from a wrestling match when the accident occurred.

B.C. Doubles Crew Shows Great Form in Canadian Tests

Vancouver Pair Rows Henley Distance in Fast Time of 6 Mins. 36 Secs. to Win Right to Represent Dominion at Games—Joe Wright Is Singles Winner

PORT DALHOUSIE, Ont., July 19 (CP).—The Canadian Olympic committee decided tonight four boats will speed over the Olympic course at Los Angeles bearing Canada's colors. Halifax, Mic-Macs four-oared crew, without coxswain, was added to the contingent after the committee had first decided only to send Joe Wright, Jr., Toronto singles ace, the Leander eight-oared crew of Hamilton, and the Ned Pratt and Noel de Mille, of Vancouver, doubles.

The Halifax crew won at the Olympic trials today from Toronto Argonauts after a spectacular race, in which the Blueseas boat slipped entirely off the course and then came back to win by a quarter length in time that was not considered fast.

Leanders, short-stroking crew that represented Canada at the British Empire games two years ago, outclassed the rival boats to earn an Olympic berth. They left Toronto Argonauts, who represented Canada at the Amsterdam games, a length and a half behind to win in the amazing time of 5 minutes 49 4-5 seconds—fastest time ever recorded in North America.

Argos, a sweep-stroke crew with a mighty finish, were unable to get even close to the speeding Hamilton boat. Winnipeg Rowing Club's eight, winners last week at the Northwest International regatta at Fort William, crossed the finishing line a full length back of Argos. McGill University, a set of lightweight, was fourth.

JOE WRIGHT WINS
Joe Wright, Toronto's sturdy son who has been playing second fiddle to Bobby Pearce since the giant Australian settled in Canada, worked an "iron man" feat without parallel in Henley's storied history. He won the singles in the fast time of 7 minutes and 7 seconds over the Olympic 2,000 metres route after rowing in the Argonaut eight-oared boat an hour and a half before.

The dark-haired sculler came from behind in the last half mile to defeat Dan Wallace, Halifax sculler, and Charlie Starke, of the Montreal Lachine. Johnny Durnan, of Toronto Dons, was a bang-up fourth.

Mic-Macs from Halifax were winners after a surprising battle with Argonauts in the fours, without coxswain. The Blueseas boat, away first and well in front at the quarter-mile, rammed all over the course on its way to the finish. Observers estimated the Halifax crew lost more than sixty yards by wandering off the course and crossing in front of the Argos boat. Hamilton Leanders were third.

The Halifax crew was timed in 6:25, fair time for 2,000 metres.

COAST CREW IN FRONT
The spectacular Vancouver doubles, De Mille and Pratt, won after rowing Bob Richards and Theo Dubois, of Winnipeg, all out. Richards, one of the country's leading singles scullers, collapsed 200 yards from the finish and allowed the Far-Westerners to go on to victory.

The Winnipeg pair made it their business to keep alongside the powerful Vancouver duple as the British Columbians got away in a dazzling burst of speed. Richards and Dubois, pulling short and fast to the long, even strokes of De Mille and Pratt, made a great race of it until the finish line was in sight. Almost as fast time as the fours recorded.

The fours-with-coxswain event was not run as Argonaut was the only entry. The same crew was second to Halifax in the fours without coxswain.

SOUTHERNERS ADVANCE IN TENNIS MEET

Seeded Stars Have Easy Matches in B.C. Clay Court Tournament

VANCOUVER, July 19.—Elmer Griffin, California entry, was the only visiting player to experience difficulty in moving into the third round of the British Columbia clay court tennis championships today, being extended to the limit in two hard-fought sets by young Ronald Sidaway, of Vancouver. The scores were 6-7, 6-4. Henry Prusoff, playing his first match in defence of his championship, won easily, 6-0, 6-4, from a local player, while John Muro, of San Francisco, considered Prusoff's chief rival, dropped only two games against Clifford Thompson, of Seattle. He plays W. Thayer, of Seattle, Wednesday, while Prusoff taken on Doug Cameron, champion of the Jericho Club.

Donald Budge, youthful California sensation of recent Northwest tournaments, accounted for Cecil McLean, Vancouver, 6-2, 6-1. Cyril Robbs, of Portland, also moved on without difficulty and meets Harry Goldman, another California junior, Wednesday. Budge comes up against Dunc Williams, one of the leading local men. Jack Brown, of Vancouver, today eliminated the lone Victoria entry, A. C. Brand, 6-1, 6-0.

This Golf Ball Traveled Very Long Distance

BANFF, July 19.—Speaking of long drives—there arrived today from Thuranga, New Zealand, addressed to the manager of the Banff Springs Hotel, a golf ball, stamped with the official marking of the local course, accompanied by a letter reading as follows:

"While playing on our links the other day I chanced upon this ball, lying in the rough on the edge of the eighteenth fairway. Questions immediately arose as to how it got here, and so I decided, at the urging of the others, to write to you and see if by any chance one of your long hitters had not recovered his drive. We have heard of the great length some Canadians have been getting and would rather like to know if he sliced, putted or straight-hitted the ball to get this far."

Local Olympic Bicycle Riders Off for South

GLENN Robbins and Lew Rush, Victoria members of the Canadian Olympic bicycle team, were given a rousing send-off last night when the H. F. Alexander left for the South. KID M'COY ON PAROLE

Former Welter Champion Is Released From Prison After Six Years

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—Kid McCoy, once welterweight champion of the world, but for six years just a drag figure in the big concrete penitentiary at San Quentin, was ready tonight to enter the industrial ring—he had an offer of a job at the Ford Motor Company plant at Detroit.

The job offer made possible a parole for McCoy, whose real name is Norman Selby. He was imprisoned on a manslaughter conviction in connection with the death in Los Angeles, eight years ago, of his asserted sweetheart, Mrs. Theresa Mora.

The announcement of McCoy's "break" came today from Ed Whyte, state parole officer, who earlier had announced he possibly would take a job in New York State, in a restaurant at Saratoga Springs. The Ford offer was favored by the parole officer, he said, because of the requirements of the office governing men on parole.

McCoy will be an instructor at the Ford plant in physical training.

THIRTEEN TO SEEK HONORS FOR CANADA

Dick Wyndham Is Added to Canadian Swimming Team—Bourne Is Captain

VANCOUVER, July 19 (CP).—Superstition means nary a thing to Canada's Olympic swimmers.

Early this morning at Victoria, where the trials were concluded last night, six men and six women stars were selected to compete at Los Angeles. Tonight the name of Dick Wyndham, Vancouver, was added to the roster to make the team's personnel total thirteen.

Wyndham won the -220-yard breaststroke at the Victoria meet in three minutes fifteen and one-fifth seconds. He was squeezed out of a place on the team by better performances in other events by East-Canadian entrants. But Wyndham's style pleased the selection committee. With his expenses being paid by private parties, he leaves Vancouver on Saturday to join the Dominion's down and make the aggregation an old-fashioned baker's dozen.

Ten of the Canadian swimmers are now en route to Los Angeles from Victoria. They are Alfie Phillips, Toronto; Munroe Bourne, Montreal; George Larsen, Hamilton; George Burrows, Vancouver; Doris Ogilvie, Betty Edwards, Irene Pirie and Marjorie Linton, Toronto; Ruth Kerr, Windsor, and Irene Mullen, Hamilton.

The other two, Walter Spence, Montreal, and Robert Halloran, Quebec, did not compete in the trials here and are traveling to Los Angeles from their home cities direct.

Bourne is captain of the men's division, with Miss Pirie leading the mermaids.

JIM LONDOS AND STEELE IN DRAW

Matmen Fail to Settle Bout—10,000 Fans Oust to Stopping Show

LOS ANGELES, July 19 (AP).—Jim Londos, New York, and Ray Steele, Glendale, Calif., were allowed to wrestle to a draw here last night, although the match was billed for the world's championship, best two out of three falls to a finish.

Ten thousand persons vociferously objected to the action taken by Referee Don McDonald after two hours, fifteen minutes of grappling. McDonald said he was forced to stop the bout because of a California Athletic Commission ruling, but Dr. Harry Martin, chairman of that commission, and a ringside spectator, told the Associated Press he knew of no such ruling.

Steele took the first fall with a head scissors and bar arm in one hour twenty-eight minutes. Londos came back to throw his opponent with a body slam in twenty-five minutes, thirty-seven seconds.

The grunt and grime experts had tugged away approximately six minutes of what was to have been the third fall when McDonald called a halt as the timer struck the gong. He announced it was his privilege of allowing the bout to continue fifteen minutes longer in the hope that a decision be reached, which he did.

At the end of this time, with no more falls in sight, he terminated the bout and called it a draw.

Star Southpaw Twirls New York Squad To Win Over Seventh-Place Club—A's Capture Twin Bill From Browns—Cubs and Braves Win

AMERICAN LEAGUE
NEW YORK, July 19.—Lefty Vernon Gomez had little trouble today winning his sixteenth victory of the season, defeating the Chicago White Sox, 6 to 3, with a seven-hit performance. It was the Yanks fourth straight over Chicago. Joe Sewell hit his eighth homer of the season in the fifth inning for the winning tally after the Sox had scored all their runs in the fourth on two singles, Chapman's error and Grube's double.

PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—The Philadelphia Athletics slugged their way to two victories over the St. Louis Browns today, 9 to 8, in the first game and 16 to 6 in the nightcap. The A's had a total of 29 hits in the two games. Jimmy Fox, with a home run inside the park in the second game, boosted his season's total to 38. Roger Cramer had four hits in five times at bat in the first game and duplicated the feat in the second contest.

The second game became Rube Walberg's ninth success of the year. Earnshaw went along smoothly in the first game, holding the Browns to six hits and two runs in the first seven innings. Then he blew, and for the second straight day Grove was sent to the rescue. He received credit for his fourteenth victory of the season.

PITTSBURGH, July 19.—The league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates lost a half game in the pennant race today by splitting a double-header with the Phillies while the New York Giants, Bill Swift won the first game, 5 to 2, his tenth win of the season and his seventh in a row. Pitcher Rip Collins tripled in the eleventh and scored on Bartlett's single to take the second game, 6 to 5.

Ishida's wild pitch in the eighth inning, allowing Robinson to score from third, gave the Eagles their ninth successive victory of the season in the Twilight Baseball League last night at Royal Athletic Park, against Taiyos, 9-8. It was the closest the feathered tribe had come to suffering defeat this year. The game went to eight innings, and Robinson's run was the deciding factor.

The win practically assured the Eagles of first berth in the playoffs. The game was nip-and-tuck from start to finish. Railing with five runs in the fifth, the Taiyos led the count, but lost the lead in the next frame when the Eagles scored two tallies. Ishida's single scored two runs in the seventh to tie the score, but he lost the game in the next frame when he threw wild in attempting to fan the batter, with Robinson on third.

Arthur, who has set a fast pace for the Northwest middleweights since his tour of the Eastern States, will be seeking his third straight victory in succession at the expense of the Los Angeles middleweight, Ryan. Ryan is no stranger to these parts, having appeared here against Des Anderson, Seattle sensation, in two bouts, and is noted for his rough tactics. In his last bout he showed great stamina, but could not cope with the reserve power of Anderson and dropped the decision in the fifth round.

Higami has only shown here once, and on that occasion took Cyclone Burns without difficulty in the fourth round on successive falls in sensational fashion. After toying with Burns for the first two rounds, Higami cut loose and scored falls in the third and fourth to win easily. In Meyers, the Japanese flash will be meeting an experienced grappler and will have to be on his toes from start to finish.

My Theories on Golf

By BOBBY JONES

Almost all competent instructors of golf agree that hitting through with the left arm and left side is of first importance in striking a golf ball correctly. Whatever might have been the theories of other days, the slow-motion camera has now shown beyond any question that the straight left arm at impact is a characteristic common to all our great stylists. But now that we are able to say what the left arm should do, we are up against the far more difficult problem of finding a way to make it do what it ought to. It is easy enough to say, "keep the left arm straight." But the average golfer wants to know how he can do it.

I have attempted to stress many times the importance of starting the backswing mainly with the left side in order to encourage a full extension of that arm. This is the best means of straightening the arm from its relaxed condition at address. But many good players obtain satisfactory results without a perfect straightness of the left arm at the top of the swing. Of far greater importance is the behavior of this member in the act of striking the ball. It was my observation that most of the really bad shots played at Fresh Meadow were directly attributable to left arms, which collapsed in the act of hitting or otherwise failed to carry through.

Briefly stated, I think the most common cause of the collapse of the left arm at this time results from the left elbow, in one way or another, being forced in against the side of the body. Or stated another way, in order to hit through with the left side, the arm must be in such position that the elbow joint, rather than the outside of the arm, is viewed as it hangs at the side.

Many players appear to fear that the clubhead will not catch up in time. Consequently they attempt to throw, or "cow-tail" it in ahead of the hands—exactly the thing which causes the left arm to fold up and become entirely useless. I have seen a good instructor, upon taking charge of such a pupil, shock him almost out of his senses by telling him to try to hit the ball with the sole of his club. The only thing intended to be accomplished by such advice was to turn the left elbow away from the side, so that the left arm could carry through. An examination of the grips used by expert golfers will show that in every instance the left hand is to some degree on top of the shaft. The effect of this also is to present the elbow somewhat toward the hole, and to prevent a clamping of the upper left arm against the side of the body. The left arm should work closely across the chest and front, but there must never be any suggestion of the player's "hugging himself" with it.

BRAZIL SPURNS "BABY" CARS
Autocrats in Brazil are not interested in "baby" cars. Neither do they care for automobiles from the United Kingdom, according to a report of the commercial secretary at Rio de Janeiro to the British Department of Overseas Trade. The antipathy is due to the fact that local distributors of British cars went out of business after a few months or a year, and left their clients without service.

A large group of local Chinese nationalist officials and other leaders of Little China were at the dock of Rio de Janeiro to greet the Chinese Ambassador, who is on his way to give him and Mrs. Quo a rousing welcome on their journey to London, where Dr. Quo will represent the Chinese Government.

The ambassador said that unquestionably there was a growing market in China for Canadian

"Henry, my dear," she said, "this is our anniversary, and I've baked a fruit cake for tea." Her husband put down his paper and took off his spectacles. "How thoughtful of you, my dear!" he replied. "I have always looked back on the previous cakes as milestones in our life."

Security Prices Turn Easier at New York Mart

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP).—Stocks dawdled today, responding apathetically to professional operations in one or two groups that efforts toward a revival of the advance were abandoned. Closing prices represented almost a draw between minor advances and declines, with losses favored by a shade. Some of yesterday's weak spots hardened, notably Dupont, which seemed untroubled by its earnings report. Utilities were firmer. People's Gas rallied moderately as it became known that re-funding operations for the Insull group's forthcoming maturities were to be undertaken soon. American Telephone and Consolidated Gas improved fractionally. Ralls tried to be hopeful over the outcome of the executives' conference, but got little real inspiration therefrom.

American Tobacco "B" Reynolds "B" and Liggett & Myers "B" held part of their extreme gains of around a point. U. S. Steel was steady, although the preferred lost 13-8 net. Brooklyn Manhattan had a two-point rise. It was the dullist day since June 20, sales totaling 454,890 shares.

The bond market was a dull and featureless affair, although prices generally held to a steady and narrow range. Sales totaled $8,796,000 par value, a slight decrease from yesterday's aggregate, and the average for sixty selected issues recorded a net gain of one-tenth of a point.

The United States Government lost a large part of its following, and some of the treasuries were drifted into slightly lower territory. The utilities eased mildly, on the average, and the rails and industrial stocks just about held their own.

Foreign obligations were unusually quiet. German Government issues rallied moderately after weakness in early transactions, but they closed lower on the day. German municipal and corporate loans improved.

FANCIFUL FABLES

A boy with a peashooter can cause a lot of trouble, and Hector did when he shot some in Piltrick's... (Kindly draw straight lines between the numbers).

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

MILLIONS FOR TREATMENT, NOT ONE CENT FOR PREVENTION

There are two ways of handling diseased tonsils. First, by having them out when there is a reason to believe they may be causing trouble, and then forgetting them; second, leaving them in until they have damaged the heart, infected the ears, injured the kidneys and then never being able to forget the damage they have done.

Cancer of every sort is small before it is large; it is always in one little spot in the body before it gets into a number of places; it can usually be operated on before it gets too late.

If a tooth needs repair it is well to remember that cavities never get smaller or less tender.

There is hardly a severe medical or surgical treatment, but that might have been readily cared for if it had been taken in time.

I have quoted the above from the Bulletin of the Indiana State Board, in which Dr. T. B. Rice aptly says, "The time to take the bull by the horns is while he is a calf, before he has horns."

Some years ago I quoted a part of a poem regarding a dangerous cliff: "Some said, 'Put a fence around the edge of the cliff,' some, 'An ambulance down in the valley.'"

Practically the entire programme of all health boards is one of urging the public to sneak up on its troubles when they—the troubles—are asleep.

The point, of course, is that health boards know, doctors know, and many thinking people know, that prevention is the common sense way to handle the ills of life.

Malaria, smallpox, typhoid fever, pernicious anaemia, yellow fever, diabetes, diphtheria, scarlet fever, tuberculosis are now prevented, thousands of lives saved and millions of people kept happy, all due to going out and preventing trouble instead of waiting to treat or cure it when it comes. It has been well said, "Millions for treatment and not one cent for prevention" seems to be the idea of most people.

The thought, of course, is that your health, your life, the health and life of your loved ones are worth more than any sum of money—worth more than the home or the motor car. You give thought to your money by investing it carefully, to your home by insuring it, and to your car by having it overhauled from time to time.

That body of yours—your health and life—can get insurance by regular visits to your doctor and dentist. Any cough, indigestion, shortness of breath, lump, sore, infected teeth will thus be detected before it is too late.

What Today Means

"CANCER"

If July 20 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:10 a.m. to 9:30 a.m., from 1:30 p.m. to 3 p.m., and from 7:45 p.m. to 9 p.m. The danger periods are from 10:50 a.m. to noon, and from 6 p.m. to 7:15 p.m.

Breakers will be encountered on the sea of life on July 20, which will call for resourcefulness and courage. Most difficulties will be of a personal nature, and will require personal supervision and secret thought. Sentiment, for the time being, had better be discarded for the sake of present and material needs.

Children born on this July 20 will have three factors in their future success may be attributed: the power to concentrate, an optimistic disposition and definite ambitions. They will be enthusiastic without being too visionary. Their later life should be a happy fulfillment of the promises of their youth.

You are, if born on July 20, fortunately, receptive in so far as new ideas are concerned. In spite of your regard for tradition and without any lack of respect for established customs, you, when faced with difficulties, do not hesitate to discard that which you deem to be useless, and not only embrace, but hug modern and up-to-date methods. If the same resourcefulness that characterizes your actions in time of stress were called upon when favorable conditions prevail, your material success would be doubly assured. Your "punch" is apparently to writing success out of comparative failure, rather than to continue and add further lustre to an accomplishment.

Impulsiveness is one of your weaknesses, and though at times a quick impulse has served a useful purpose, yet at other times it has left you "high and dry" to speculate on what might have been. You, too, are easily dazzled by appearances. Time and time again, you pin your faith to one whose only passport to your confidence is a smart "get-up" and a glib tongue. "All that glitters is not gold," and gold does not always glitter.

Your disposition is somewhat fickle, and you are liable to become a victim of infatuation. This particularly applies to women born on July 20. When, however, you do settle and run in double harness, you will do your utmost to keep step with your mate and keep up your end of it.

After running day and night for 133 years a stationary steam engine has just been scrapped at Koenigsborn, Westphalia. The engine, which was constructed according to Watts' principle, is said to be the oldest in Germany. Ever since 1799 it had driven a pump in a Koenigsborn minion Theatre's feature picture. The lessons always were in Shakespearean roles, enacted in their home. Senator Bankhead always has been an admirer of the famous bard and today is considered one of the nation's most thorough students of Shakespeare.

"Father used to train me in Shakespeare when I was at school, long, long before I went to New York to try my fortune on the stage," the Paramount star states. "Many are the times when I have been Juliet to his Romeo. It was extremely hard, because I always knew, father was a familiar with my speeches as his own and I worked in fear of forgetting."

PLAYHOUSE Mae Clarke, one of the most acclaimed young actresses on the screen since her poignant performance in "Waterloo Bridge" again scores in a Columbia picture at the Playhouse Theatre. "Three Wise Girls," with Jean Harlow and Walter Byron, marks Miss Clarke's second appearance under the Columbia banner; the other being in "The Good Bad Girl."

CAPITOL Circumstantial evidence comes close to sending a beautiful society girl to the electric chair in "The Trial of Vivienne Ware," the Fox production, current feature at the Capitol Theatre. How she escapes conviction but fails to escape romance, forms the basis of what is declared to be one of the most intensely interesting pictures yet to reach the screen. Joan Bennett portrays the leading role.

EMPIRE The reputed audacious THEATRE and highly organized underworld is given a dainty swift kick in "The Wiser Sex," headlining at the Empire Theatre today. And it is the alluring and well dressed toe of Claudette Colbert which delivers the kick just in the nick of time to keep a self-styled tough egg from railroad-ing her fiancé on a murder charge. Miss Colbert portrays the role of a darling of class, who leaves a va-cation in Europe, not telling how many yachts, limousines and liver-

NOVEL SYMPHONY HEARD IN FILM

The longest sustained symphony ever composed forms a novel thematic background for "Symphony of Six Millions," coming to the Empire Theatre next Friday. Composed by Max Steiner and based upon a theme submitted by Fannie Hurst, author of the picture which co-features Ricardo Cortez and Irene Dunne, the music runs subdued throughout the length of the picture and has a central motif dominated by themes representing various characters of the play.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

Out of Trouble Into Trouble

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

When out of trouble you may leap From other trouble try to keep.

—Old Mr. Toad.

That is Old Mr. Toad's way of warning you to look before you leap, even though you are leaping from danger. There is nothing gained by jumping from one state of trouble into another just as bad. Old Mr. Toad knows. He has had experience. And that experience has cost him many frights and a great deal of worry. So just heed Old Mr. Toad's warning.

He had heard the call of the sweet singers in the Smiling Pool and had needed it. Hop, hop, hipperty-hop, he had started from Farmer Brown's garden for the Smiling Pool on the Green Meadows. It was a long journey for Old Mr. Toad to make. You know he has to travel in short hops and I suspect that if you had to hop all the way from Farmer Brown's garden down to the Smiling Pool you would call it a long journey, even though you are ever and ever so many times larger than Old Mr. Toad.

He started early in the evening but he stopped so many times to catch worms and insects and to rest that by morning he was only at the edge of the garden. There he crept under a big stone and took a long nap. When he awoke it was raining. "This just means," he had jolly, round, bright Mr. Toad been shining Old Mr. Toad would have waited for the coming of the Black Shadows, for he cannot travel in the heat of a bright day. But the rain made all the difference in the world and he bravely started on hop, hop, hipperty-hop.

He went down to the edge of Farmer Brown's cornfield, which had been ploughed but not yet planted. He hopped along the line of the fence, keeping just outside the tangled dead grass just under the fence. It was easier going there. Then, too, he could see where he was going. So he solemnly moved along, hop, hop, hipperty-hop, just into the back of him, a short distance, Sammy Jay began to scream at the top of his voice—and at the same time dart down toward the grass. Other birds began to hurry over there and do the same thing and all were both excited and angry.

So he solemnly moved along, hop, hop, hipperty-hop

Old Mr. Toad stopped to listen and wonder what it was all about. Then suddenly it came to him what the cause of all the excitement was. It was Mr. Blacksnake! He gasped. "I know it," Sammy Jay discovered him and now all those birds are trying to make life miserable for him and drive him away. What if he should come this way! Oh dear! I must get away from here and find a place to hide!"

Sheer terror took possession of Old Mr. Toad. He hasn't many enemies. Of those he has he fears none quite as he does Mr. Blacksnake. So now away he went, hop, hop, hipperty-hop, hop, hop, hipperty-hop, making each hop as long as he could. Because he was trying to look behind him he couldn't watch in front of him at the same time and so, of course, couldn't see where he was going. He was doing his best, his very best to hop out of trouble, but he had completely forgotten to watch out not to hop into trouble. You see he could think of but one thing and that was that behind him was Mr. Blacksnake. Nothing before him could be as bad as that.

Because he didn't see where he was heading he got out of the open where the going was easy, into the grass where the going was hard. This frightened him more than anything else he did. He reached the cries of those birds behind him were drawing nearer. Of course that would mean that Mr. Blacksnake was coming nearer. He made a frantic leap and instead of landing with a thump that knocked all the breath from him. He was at the bottom of a post hole that Farmer Brown's boy had dug in the day before. Now what was he to do?

TO HOLD ANNUAL SHOW NEXT WEEK

Victoria Horticultural Society Is Making Plans for Summer Display at Willows

The ninth annual Summer show of the Victoria Horticultural Society will be held on Friday and Saturday, July 29 and 30, in the main exhibition building at the Willows. An industrial committee of the society is now working on plans for staging the show, which is expected to surpass all previous exhibits. In previous years the floor space has been somewhat congested and with the securing of the large hall at the Willows, some fine displays are anticipated.

One or two minor changes have been made in the prize list, as compared with that of last year, which enable the exhibitor to make more attractive displays. The society is again offering its challenge cup for the two group displays, while numerous other trophies will also be up for competition.

PRIZE LISTS

Prize lists may be obtained from all floral stores or from the Public Market, or will be mailed on application to F. E. Boulter, secretary, 538 Obed Avenue.

A meeting of the women members of the society will be held in the City Hall tomorrow night at 8 o'clock to discuss the necessary arrangements for the catering at the show.

Judging in the home garden contest, sponsored by the society, will be undertaken this coming weekend. It was learned from the secretary last night.

BIGGEST MAP OF MOON

H. Percy Wilkins, of Llanelly, Wales, has just completed the largest map of the moon ever made. It is 200 inches in diameter, and shows scores of thousands of craters, ridges, mountains, and many details never before shown, all portrayed accurately to scale. Wilkins started the map fourteen years ago. He is an interior decorator, and studies astronomy in his spare time.
